

When we started our company in 1976, the audit profession was a closed shop.

As an unknown start-up, it was as difficult to attract clients as it was to persuade staff to join us.

But some did, people who saw in us an irrepressible optimism and a spark of purpose in what we did.

IT'S NOT WHAT WE DO,
IT'S HOW
WE DO IT.

It was those early times in business that taught us the true value of relationships and the power of loyalty. In 45 years, this has not changed; if anything, those cornerstones on which we built the company are more important than ever.

Despite the almost unimaginable advances in technology, people are still what make the difference. Systems and innovations can be copied, often quite easily. The culture of the company, the way it does things, is unique.

Like the rest of the world, the pandemic has presented challenges and disruption on a scale unprecedented in our lifetime. Our company's response, and the ability to safeguard every job, was the result of an embedded culture of putting people first.

We also realised that every client was facing unique challenges of their own. Identifying where we could help and where we could add value has in many ways, shaped the way we work. It has also underlined the importance of clear, consistent communication.

Many of our associates and partners have told us it has made them re-evaluate their role and the way value is measured.

We are more than aware that we work in a very competitive space, among highly capable companies bigger, smaller and of similar size. We also know that service offerings and the supporting technology are seldom, if ever, unique.

SO WHY NOLANDS?

The answer is our people.

Everyone who works for us is not only continuously trained on the technical issues, but is also mentored in the way we set about our work, and the way we build relationships with our clients and one another.

It's an inclusive culture of support, respect and the creation of value.

It's the Nolands way.

CLIVE NOLAND

AUDIT

NOLANDS was started more than four decades ago by young men short on contacts and social connections and big on getting going, fast.

In those days, auditing was a routine affair, earning the people in the profession the name bean counters, or box tickers.

From the start, Noland's was determined it was not that sort of company. The result was an attraction for clients who themselves were entrepreneurs and saw in Noland's a like-minded approach to business.

From zero clients and a handful of people to offices in 15 cities internationally, we believe the DNA of the company to be unchanged.

To be an entrepreneur is not about size, it is a frame of mind: a can-do, will-do attitude, and an innate understanding of value and how to create it.

At Noland's, we find these sorts of clients feel a natural fit and relationships develop easily.

THE BEST
DONE WHEN
THERE'S A MEETING OF MINDS.

RELATIONSHIPS & SOLUTIONS

It is a simple fact that our focus on relationship building has a direct bearing on the quality of the work we are able to do. Put simply, the better we understand you and your business, the better the work. Good relationships are never one-sided; they require interaction, communication and mutual respect. These are the key objectives we have with all our clients, irrespective of the size of their company.

AUDITING HAS CHANGED

The demands on the modern auditor are far more complex than they were 10 years ago. The reason is obvious: the world and the world of business is complex and becoming more so, very quickly.

Keeping up with growing uncertainty with things like crypto currencies and the blockchain, the ever-present threat of cyber-attack, highly sophisticated fraud, the growing impact of climate change and the application of IT, keeps adding to the challenge.

The COVID-19 pandemic taught us lessons for life and we have emerged more agile, more open-eyed and far better equipped to deal with change. One of the most important things we know is that machines, no matter how clever they get, can't replace people.

HOW WE FIT INTO YOUR BUSINESS

"As the world starts to recover from the COVID-19 pandemic, there will be huge financial and business challenges, and the right advice will be critical... there has never been a better time for governments, businesses, and individuals to understand the value that a Chartered Accountant can bring."

Michael Izza,
Chairman, Chartered Accountants Worldwide

We know that the cornerstone of what we do is about certainty, clarity, authentication and peace of mind. But we need to go further. There are things that we can do, value we can add, and advice we can share that does not cross the lines of the Companies Act, nor compromise the independence of our core functions. We know you also want a friendly smile, a chat now and then, an email answered as quickly as possible (our target is 24-hours) and an open sharing of information. In other words, a relationship.

GGi unites a group of international, independent audit, accounting, law and consulting firms with the joint potential to resolve any financial, legal and tax issues which may arise. GGI's broad international coverage provides clients with access to high quality firms in 126 countries and over 870 member firms worldwide. Noland's is the sole GGI Audit representative in South Africa.

ADVISORY

It goes without saying that as the business landscape gets more complex, the more pressure there is on decision makers. Trying to balance the complexities of the present and the unknown challenges of the future makes the big picture far more difficult to see.

What we do best is help companies see possibilities and arrive at solutions.

Those possibilities could be threats or opportunities and, once identified, we are able to act as connector of a range of experience, skills and know-how, to develop plans and implement them quickly.

Finding connections between things that appear at first to have no relationship to each other can lead to unique solutions.

THE ART AND SCIENCE OF JOINING THE DOTS.

Nolands Advisory works across a range of core skill sets within the company, such as Nolands Capital, Forensics, Tax and Law and many companies with whom we have established working relationships.

We also work cross border with our international licensees and our colleagues at Geneva Capital Group.

CAPITAL

Nolands Capital is driven by a young team with the executive and board support of proven business professionals and acknowledged industry leaders. It is a special collaboration of energy and experience that gives Nolands Capital a significant and unusual edge in the markets it services.

Led by CEO Stuart Noland, the company started working remotely barely a year after start-up which has encouraged, even demanded, a high degree of agility and responsiveness in the way it operates. "We were determined that the challenges presented by the pandemic could not be seen in any way by the team as some sort of reigning in of our ambition. Instead, the systems we've put in place have become an in-built strength that has improved efficiencies as well as our speed of decision making, response and delivery" he says.

As a corporate finance house, Nolands Capital specialises in helping clients and their business achieve their goals across short, medium and long-term horizons. There are three areas of specialisation: mergers and acquisitions, transaction services, and management consulting. On both buy and sell side transactions, clients are fully supported, end-to-end. The team also works closely with clients to raise capital (debt or equity) to assist them to grow their business and maximise shareholder value.

THE ENERGY TO MOVE FAST, THE EXPERIENCE TO KNOW WHERE.

TAX

Today, in most companies, management and leadership are trained to deal with the unexpected. Adaptability, speed, agility: all these need to be part of how the modern company navigates its way through uncertainty and change.

With Tax, every company has the opportunity to do exactly the opposite.

Our approach, with every client, is to maximise the time available to us to plan, both in broad terms and in detail.

IT'S ALL ABOUT BEING ON THE FRONT FOOT, ALL THE TIME.

Tax is an area where the financial management of a company has the opportunity to avoid unpleasant surprises that can result in serious distraction and cash-flow disruption. The key is to plan and to be proactive. In our experience, most clients run into problems, or fail to take opportunities, when tax is relegated down the priority list.

Nolands Tax is here to ensure your compliance, and also to help you stay ahead of the game, preparing for the future, rather than having the future arrive unexpectedly and too quickly.

Our services range from advanced opinions of tax strategies, audit support, dispute resolution and transfer pricing to family matters such as estate planning.

LAW

Law and the world of business intersect at every level, from the basic requirements of a company start-up to the most complex of transactions, disputes and contractual agreements.

Business is done in an increasingly complex environment. The business leaders who want to keep difficult and unforeseen situations to the minimum will seek the best advice in making sure that they are fully aware of the legislation and governance details that affect them. Change or imminent change needs to be monitored and planned for.

The result is that, today, the role of the lawyer in commerce has rapidly evolved from routine compliance issues to business savvy advisor.

There are certain things that businesses can't do and others they have to do. Knowing both sides of this coin is vital in avoiding needless and often expensive errors.

Our lawyers understand the complex tax, regulatory and commercial laws of today's economy. We work in an environment which is multidisciplinary, closing the gap between business advisors and legal counsel. The result is better cost efficiencies and faster solutions.

THE RIGHT TIME

OF LAW ARE
WOVEN THAN EVER.

FORENSICS

Forensics is a term most commonly associated with the world of detective work in a crime environment.

It is very similar to what we do, in the world of business. The fundamentals are the same: to gather and analyse evidence to establish not only "What happened?" but also "What's happening?" or "What could happen?"

Our role is determined by the stage at which we are briefed and there are three main aspects to what we do:

FORENSIC/INTERNAL AUDIT/REVIEWS

When a client suspects a company is at potential risk for whatever reason but is unsure as to the extent, the nature or the possible protagonist, our mandate would be to identify any systemic fault, fraud or wrongdoing and to provide a detailed report supporting remedial action.

FORENSIC INVESTIGATIONS

This work is undertaken when the client believes that a risk has been positively identified and requires us to substantiate and provide comprehensive reporting. This work is by nature detailed and exhaustive as it may underpin a decision to pursue legal action.

RISK MANAGEMENT, MONITORING, EVALUATION

Here we focus on providing on-going solutions to identified risks and this is usually an on-going service that is integrated into a client's broader strategy of risk management.

Our approach is determined by our client's requirements and priorities but generally follows the stages of planning, fieldwork, investigatory reporting and follow-up review.

As a niche consultancy, we aim to provide clients with dynamic and effective tools and services to deal with the unexpected. We help our clients prepare for and respond to uncertainties, assisting them to successfully navigate an increasingly complex business landscape.

Our multi-disciplinary team comprises legal professionals (civil and criminal), investigators (forensic and general), organisational effectiveness specialists, and various support staff. As part of the wider Nolands Audit group, we draw on the expertise of specialists in the Accounting, Auditing and Tax fields, where required.

For some five decades, Nolands has built its reputation on relationships & solutions. In 2014 we decided to register the Nolands Foundation so that we, together with our clients could make a difference in the communities where we operate. Although we've been involved in several projects in the past, our core focus moving forward will be education and personal transformation.

THE POWER OF DIFFERENCE

Through the Nolands Foundation, positive changes are being made, mental well-being is being nurtured, resilience is being instilled, and hope is being created – all to inspire brighter futures for young South Africans.

It all takes some doing, but through the individual and collective resources of Nolands, our employees and clients, some of the pressing needs of local communities are being met. Three powerful initiatives drive the Nolands Foundation's work – each as exciting as the next.

2BE PROJECT

The 2Be Project helps young people build a solid foundation on which they can build. It's run at schools, and engages learners, teachers, principals, and parents/guardians. The programme focuses on imparting values that have sustained society for thousands of years such as ethics, principles, and character development. By reaching and influencing all parties involved in a young person's life, a ripple effect of positive change is created that impacts communities one individual, and one family at a time.

Nolands FOUNDATION 100 CLUB

THE NOVA INITIATIVE

As a result of social media, broken family units, and negative influences, mental well-being is at an all-time low, and teenage suicide rates are deeply concerning. Through the NOVA initiative being launched in 2025, the Nolands Foundation is committed to addressing critical mental health challenges by assisting at-risk youth and teachers.

Research demonstrates that people connected to nature are typically happier and more likely to find life meaningful. Nature generates positive emotions such as calmness, joy and creativity; and is also associated with lower levels of depression and anxiety.

Recognising that many young people lack access to high-quality nature spaces, the Foundation's goal is to facilitate transformative experiences in nature for learners and teachers, offering a potential pathway to improved mental health and well-being.

We echo the words of Archbishop Tutu:

WE SHOULD ALL DO
OUR BIT OF GOOD
WHEREVER WE ARE,
BECAUSE IT'S THE BITS OF GOOD PUT
OVERWHELM
THE WORLD.

PROUD 2BE SHE PROJECT

Far too often, female learners miss crucial days of school due to their inability to access sanitary products during their menstrual cycles. The Proud 2Be She initiative supports these young women by distributing reusable sanitary products and facilitating workshops that guide them through their journey into womanhood. Besides sponsoring sanitary products; the Nolands Foundation engages with the learners to impart knowledge about self-worth and empowers them to embrace their unique identity with pride.

We are proud of the fact that our leadership, staff and clients assist, and collectively add massive value. Harnessing this collective energy gives us the opportunity to maximise what we do and to make a difference in our communities.

We'd like to invite you to join us in our quest.
